MOUNTED POLICE MADE A BIG HAUL

On Saturday last William Weech, Frank Witcox and Gilbert Framington, living in the foothills, were arrested on a warrant sworn before Magistrate Hotchkiss charging them with stealing $9 bushels of wheat the property of David Nelson who lives near Granum and valued at $100. The men were remanded to the Macleod barracks until this Thursday for their preliminary hearing. In the meantime search warrants were gotten out and on Monday the mounted police went to the hills to look for wheat. They found wheat straight and furnished an added sensation by bringing back a large consignment of assorted goods alleged to have been stolen from Claresholm and Stately stores.

These goods were found in Weech's house.

In the Witcox granary a quantity of the supposed stolen wheat was found. Framington is a young lad employed by Witcox.

On Wednesday J. M. Soby, N.

Holmes, J. T. Kingsley and others went to the barns and identified some of the stuff said to have been stolen. A brand new set of lines was identified by Mr. Kingsley. Mr. Holmes spotted a consignment of gloves, and Mr. Soby had a claim on the larger part of the booty. In addition to goods out of his store Mr. Soby identified a lot of stuff which he said was taken from his farm house. Weech is a bachelor and the stuff seized includes gloves, hair pins, paint buttons, coat starch, ladder twine, clothes, overalls, saws.

The wheat case is the one the police were anxious to prosecute as it is decided in this district to make that class of crime undesirable as a means of livelihood. The Crown realized the difficulty in identifying wheat but as horses were tracked from Nelsons to the Witcox granary and out of the horses were a peculiar shoe some circumstantial evidence will be presented.

STARTED ON THE NEW WATER WORKS

Mr. Turner Bone, engineer in charge of the construction of the water and lighting system, strongly recommended that the council at its last meeting to a right of way from the creek in Claresholm to the place in the road to be used. The town would have to control over the road and it would be difficult to protect the pipe in a recent of grading being changed. The cost of obtaining right of way should be very light as farmers could still have use of the land and could be given the privilege of getting water. A strip 23 feet wide from the creek in Claresholm to be provided. The council agreed to sign the engineer and authorized him to negotiate for the necessary lands. Mr. Bone had all the specifications for the machinery prepared and suggested that instead of wasting two or three weeks advertising for tenders the manufacturers should be sent copies of the specifications and requested to tender. This will be done and tenders will be in by June 25th.

The work will be pushed ahead rapidly. It was decided to make an inventory of the electric lighting plant now standing, to offer the company the amount of the estimated value and should they refuse, then order the poles and wires removed from the streets. The company had no franchise.

Councillor Miller made a vigorous demand that all contractors be compelled to employ local labor. The other councillors thought these would be so trouble about that and refused to bind the contractors in this regard. The town itself will likely be able to use all the local labor on the parts of the work to be done by day labor.

Mr. Bert L. Perry of Calgary has arrived to assist Mr. Bone and was busy this week visiting the electric plant. Mr. Perry will make a popular addition to the population for the next year.

C.P.R. TO MOVE THE STOCK YARDS

Superintendent Chudleigh of the C.P.R. and members of his engineering staff passed through town on Monday afternoon and met a number of members of the town council, board of trade and other citizens to confer about the stock yards. Mr. Chudleigh announced that within six weeks the stock yards would be moved a mile north of the present location outside the town limits. All the plans are completed and as soon as the workmen are through with work further up the line this job will be tackled.

Mr. Chudleigh was asked as to the provision for housing platform and thought there would be no trouble securing ample accommodation in that regard. He asked that the board of trade write him and he thought the matter would be attended to at once.

Mr. Chudleigh was broached as to the possibility of opening Third Ave. across the track but he laughed the proposal away and would not discuss it. He confirmed the rumor that the Imperial Elevator Company would build on the site of the present stock yards.

As to the opening of the crossing in the south end he said it was up to the town to buy the necessary land. The company had no alternative than to obey the order of the Railway Commission. The council was a most cordial one and the superintendent seemed pleased to meet so many influential business men.

The officials were of the opinion that the present stock yards are ample to the need of the town as the fences which now obstruct the way from the foothills preclude the possibility of any large drives of cattle coming here for shipment.

A Fortunate Escape

Master Millard Sills had a most remarkable escape from an awful death last week. He was on a plow on his father's farm when the machine apparently bumped into a badger hole. The little chap who is only 14 years old, was thrown off under the wheels which passed over his hips and legs. How he came to escape being crushed to a pulp is hard to realize but it is thought that he fell into another badger hole and escaped the full weight of the machine. He lost the use of his legs for a few days but apparently will be all right again shortly. It certainly was an astonishingly wonderful escape and the lad and parents are to be congratulated on the fortunate outcome.

Dominion Day Celebration

There will be a big street parade and industrial pageant in connection with the Dominion Day celebration in Claresholm and at a meeting in the community hall on Tuesday night a committee was appointed with full power to arrange and complete details. The committee are W.C. Bow, chairman, K. F. Ferguson, J. A. Smith, Mr. Marshall of the Crown Lumber Co. and Mr. Snyder of the Pioneer Lumber Co. There was a large attendance at the meeting and all were in favor of a splendid demonstration. The afternoon will be devoted to the biggest and most exciting event attempted here. In the evening Claresholm and Chesham will have a game of ball. The day will conclude with a concert in the L.O.O.F. hall at night.

MAKING A TUNNEL.

The Way Railroad Engineers Bore Through a Mountain.

Sometimes the construction engineer brings his new life to face to face with a mountain too steep to climb, too high to mount, and then he prepares to pierce it. Tunnels are not pleasant to dig, but they are, however, fearfully expensive to construct, and they necessitate a double inspection, that of the engineer and the inspector. Very large one—they reduce grades and distances in wholesale fashion, and with no stoppage of traffic. The engineer must be prepared to drive tunnels and the folk who come after him to operate the tunnel. The tunnel is apt to be a separate part of the work. It calls for its own expert talent.

If the tunnel is more than a half or three-quarters of a mile long it will probably be dug from a shaft or shafts as well as from its portals. In this way the work will not only be greatly hastened, but the shafts will continue in use after it is completed as vents for the fresh air and the escape of gases from the tunnel.

The original cause of work is by the use of cutting shields proceeding simultaneously from the portals and the middle of the tunnel. These shields are to be likened to steel rings of a circumference only a few inches less than the diameter of the tunnel. Men working on different shafts to open the tunnel, tunneling with drill and dynamite constantly clear a path for it, whereas it is in the forward. The shields are cutting ahead, and more locomotives, steam or electric, are used in removing the rock. The use of electric light keeps the tunnel quite clear of the rock and the most perfect lighting of the workers.

To raise cases the rock through which the tunnel is being driven is strong enough to support itself. But in most cases the rock is so soft that it must be bricked, and a rule, and this lining is set in place right in the path of the shields. The rock is broken up by perhaps mouths of work the time comes when the different bore must be joined. The work is done by a tube from portal to portal.

THE AMERICAN WON.

Hobbs Picked All the Cuck in the Bank of England.

The first world's fair, the Crystal Palace at London, was held in 1851. It was at the Crystal Palace that the American mechanic showed that he was not a quitter. He was a man of the American challenge Club, and Hobbs, the American mechanic, carried off the prize as a lock-maker. Hobbs represented an American manufacturer of locks and was exhibited in the safe combination lock on the outside. He was the only one to win the prize, and the free offer was made to the mechanics of the world that if they could make a safe, the money contained therein could be taken for their success.

At that time Hobbs was famous all over England and in Europe as a lock-maker. The first time he was exhibited at the Club and used his lock exclusively. Hobbs examined the workmanship of the locks and offered to not only enter the outer doors of the Bank of England, but to open all the seven doors leading to the treasure safe, inside of two hours if permission was given. He was given the time by the Britishers to stand, and they gave the necessary consent.

Hobbs was on hand two hours before the time for opening the doors of the bank arrived and announced that he was ready to go to work. All the tools he had carried in his vest pocket, consisting of about twenty pieces. He opened the front door in seven minutes and entered the bank triumphantly. The next morning the door was open and the treasure safe was open. In six minutes he was in, and before one hour had passed, half of the time he asked for, he had his hands in the treasure of the bank, much to the amazement of the directors of the bank and to the intense disgust of Hobbs. He took his defeat quietly, however, and went to his home in New York.

This he did by taking Hobbs into his employment as a watchmaker.

"Glenn's a good fellow, but he's not an 'um cracker,' said Uncle John to the young lady in charge of the ribbon stand at the downtown store.

"You have evidently made a mistake in the place," she smilingly replied. "Glenn is a dry goods clerk."

"What, now? I reckon I know'd that," said the girl, who had just seen a dead beef 'um cracker' hand dry goods there. 'I'd like to know what the woman you'd call 'Glenn' was doing."

NAVAL RED TAPE.

The Result of Having Neither Coffin nor Grave at Sea.

A case once occurred, which is vouchsafed for by naval officers who have seen it. One of the crew of a ship, showing the absurdities to which red tape can go. About twenty years ago a certain ship was in a foreign port. One of the crew was killed and on the recommendation of the surgeon was sent to a hospital on shore.

The simple and straightforward method would have been to call in an undertaker and have him arrange for a decent casket a lot in the country. This would be the usual procedure with a common man or ordinary sailor. The routine of economy and reform, however, would not permit of so simple a course. What actually occurred was this:

The surgeon made a requisition on the port to have a casket made. He did not have one in stock and therefore it was forwarded to the fleet purveyor, who also, and in the undertaking business, had no coffin on hand. The admiral directed that the fleet purveyor to purchase a coffin after obtaining prices from six or seven different sources. The coffin was to be followed in securing the grave. The surgeon made requisition for a coffin, and the fleet purveyor sent him a grave in a cemetery. Consequently the commander in chief directed the fleet purveyor to purchase a coffin from six or seven different sources and purchase one from the lowest responsible bidder.

All this, of course, is a screaming farce. It is a case of red tape, and it shows what comes when common sense and experience are set aside to give way to the red tape of the academic phrase—Bureaucracy.

KIDNAPING VOTERS.

Once a Regular Feature of Political Campaigns in England.

In England a generation or two ago kidnaping was a regularly recognized feature of political warfare. It was of an election especially men of influence on either side would mysteriously disappear for a few days, and strange tales of forcible seizures, and other country in the hands of the driven by yelling politicians, followed by longer or shorter terms of gilded imprisonment in great cities.

They were wine and dined in sumptuous style and treated right royally in every way. Only user liberty being denied them, but these did not always fare quite so well. Their own victim was kept in a room, and the only food that he had been devoured from his house by a ruse and kept shut up in a cage for three or four days.

Wholesale kidnaping of voters in England is not so common now. The process being rendered easier by the election of candidates paying the traveling expenses of their electors, and from the polling places.

During the recent contest for the election of a member of the House of Commons, a whole shipload of voters of the borough, dispatched from London by the railway, were taken to a place that had been devised from his house by a ruse and kept shut up in a cage for three or four days.

A FIGHTING WHALE.

Made Offenders of the Small Boats and Took the Ship.

Among the tales of the whale-factory told by John H. Sprays in "The Story of the New England Whaler" is that of the loss of the Ann Alexander, of Boston, in the Indian Ocean.

It was on the "offshore ground," west of Chile and Peru, when on Aug. 30, 1860, the Ann Alexander, under the command of Captain John S. Deane, was on a whaling voyage. Deane was in one of them.
